

M'DERMOTT WAS BOUGHT OUT BY BIG INTERESTS

I. H. McMichael, Dismissed Chief Page of House, Tells of Deals in Which Illinois Man Took Part.

WANTED WITNESS TO ASSUME ALL BLAME

Agreed to Pay Him $100 a Month if They Sent Him to Arkansas for Either Perjury or Forgery.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—In a dramatic statement, I. H. McMichael, dismissed Chief Page of the house representatives Friday night, presented to the house lobby investigating committee a sweeping charge of corruption against Rep. James E. McDermott of Illinois, for years his sponsor.

With intense earnestness, McMichael, in picturesque language, corroborated the allegations of M. M. Mulhall, against McDermott and made additional charges, at times shocking the committee and spectators with outbursts of profanity and slang.

The witness protested that for years he had exerted every effort to support McDermott, had loaned him money, had helped him in his campaigns.

Now, he said, McDermott, had "thrown him down" and he felt that he must tell the truth.

In addition to the charges already made McMichael swore that the Chicago representative told him that he received $3,000 out of a fund of $10,000 raised by the pawnbrokers of Washington to oppose a bill passed in the last congress regulating interest rates in the District of Columbia.

In this connection McMichael's told of a trip to New York when McDermott conferred with John McDermott, an association of brewers and with George H. Horning, a local pawnbroker.

McMichael testified that McDermott, since the Mulhall expose, had endeavored to get him to confess McDermott's part in the transaction.

"I met McDermott in the hall of this office building," said McMichael, his voice unsteady with emotion, "and he said, 'My dear friend, I'm a ruined man. What am I going to do? Do you suppose anybody will believe this old guy?'"

"I said to him, 'I've worked hard for you six years, harder than I ever worked for any man. I'll take care of you for two years and I'll pay you $100 a month while you are there.'"

"I told him I had done all I could for him. He said, 'You've got nothing to lose. You don't lose anything by my wife. I'm a congressman and I've got a wife and children. Say you wrote these letters unbeknownst to me, and that I did not know anything about it. Even if they prove that you committed perjury and forgery they can only send you down the river to Arkansas for two years and I'll pay you $100 a month while you are there.'"

"I refused the offer. 'I said to him, 'Yes, you're willing to pay me $100 a month to go to jail for two years? You don't pay me anything while you're in there?'"

"Apparently, McDermott tried to control himself. McMichael told the committee of furnishing $75 to take Mulhall to Chicago to aid McDermott in the 1912 campaign.

"Where did you get that money?" asked Rep. Garrett. "My mother had just died," said McMichael, "and I was executor for my mother's estate. The money was in a bank here in Chicago to the credit of the estate and I gave Mulhall a check for it. I had to hustle to put it back. I never got any of it from McDermott."

Mr. McMichael told at length of making trips to various places either for McDermott or himself.

"McDermott told me," he said, "that the pawnbrokers had raised $10,000 to fight the loan shark bill, and later he told me he got $7,500 of it. When I asked him why he did not pay me what he owed me with part of it, he said, 'My God, man, I had to pay it on debts and I still owe $9,000.'"

McDermott Hears Story. Throughout McMichael's recital, Rep. McDermott with his counsel sat immediately opposite the witness, chewing on a cigar and watching his erstwhile confidential man with a steady gaze. He expressed neither surprise nor indignation at any point in the complicated story.

A story of how lobby work for the National Association of Manufacturers was done from the inside of the house of representatives, was related to the house investigating committee Friday by J. H. McMichael, former chief page of the house. Naturally attracted in a summary outburst of blue and white serge, McMichael blew clouds of smoke in the faces of the members of the committee from the witness chair while he discoursed in vivid and picturesque language.

On the Pay Roll. From the fall of 1909 until January, 1912, McMichael said, he was almost constantly on the pay roll of Martin M. Mulhall, the National Association of Manufacturers' field agent at $50 a month, while he was successively democratic chief page of the house, attendant in the house press gallery and elevator conductor in the capitol. He told of introducing Mulhall to Rep. James E. McDermott of Illinois, for whom he worked as a kind of secretary, and said that McDermott worked with Mulhall, and provided the latter with a room in the basement of the capitol where McDermott, McMichael and Mulhall conferred.

"Did you ever see any money pass between Mulhall and McDermott?" asked Chairman Garrett.

"I never seen any money actually pass between them," said the witness leaning back in his chair and pausing to puff at his cigarette. "But I had reason to believe that plenty of it was passing. I got mine open and above board."

"Why do you say you had reason to believe money was passing?"

The witness leaned forward and pounced on the committee table. "I'm not a fool," he declared vigorously. "When two guys like me and McDermott sit down to a table and two of us ain't got a penny, and a third guy comes in and we have cats and drinks and get up with the dough, I know that dough don't grow on trees, or on the table."

The witness said he, McDermott and Mulhall, after conferring at the capitol, would adjourn to a dining room in a small hotel near the capitol, for "extended sessions". He described the room provided in the capitol for the conferences as a "good place to sleep off drinks."

"How would you or McDermott know about the other having money after these conferences?" asked Chairman Garrett.

"We'd just smile at each other," he said. "Both of us were careful not to let the other know about how much money we had. If Mulhall gave me two bills I'd hide the larger one and flash the smaller one, because every time I flashed anything over $2 he copied half of it. He would go to the cashier and give him his money and draw two dollars and come back to where I was. He'd say to the cashier, 'for God's sake don't let Mac see this.' We were both doing this."

The committee and the spectators laughed heartily at McMichael's description of these transactions.

"At this time your relations with McDermott were confidential?" asked Garrett.

"Oh, yes," said the witness. He said that a hotel cashier named Regan had made affidavit as to these transactions. Regan will appear later.

The money he received from Mulhall on these occasions the witness said, was always deducted from his monthly stipend.

He said that his employment by Mulhall was for the purpose of keeping Mulhall and James A. Emery, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, advised of the status of legislation in the house and in various committees and documents to the National Association of Manufacturers' officials.
